

Scenario for using git with github.com hosting provider

It's as easy as ①, ②, ③!

① Developer changes code inside local git repository folder.

② Developer tells the local git branch about the change.

③ When developer is ready to share out the work, developer can Push local branch commits since the last pull out onto a public git branch. If developer wants to see the latest changes made by other team members, a Pull will be needed.

